

City of Pasadena
Historic Preservation Commission

Recognizes

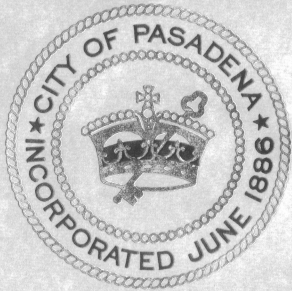

Rey-Crest Roofing & Waterproofing Company

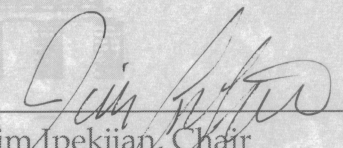

As a recipient of a 2010 Historic Preservation Award

For

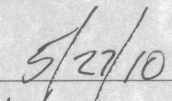

72 East Glenarm Street (Glenarm Power Plant)

The members of the Historic Preservation Commission hereby recognize and salute your work on the above-listed property, which contributes to Pasadena's rich architectural heritage as a notable example of historic rehabilitation. This award is given in conjunction with the City's observance of National Historic Preservation Month to raise public awareness about the benefits of historic preservation. Rehabilitation projects make possible the continued historic use, or a compatible new use, through repair, alterations and additions, while preserving those portions or features which convey a site or structure's historical, cultural or architectural values.
